Abstract. Polio virus (Pv) has been shown to be a potent neurotoxin. In the present study, the effect of Pv on the growth of Trichostrongylus axei was investigated. The results showed that Pv had a significant inhibitory effect on the growth of T. axei in the presence of the virus. The results also showed that the growth of T. axei was significantly inhibited in the presence of the virus. The results of the present study suggest that Pv may be a potential agent for the control of T. axei in the field.
